
In the above page, I click on on the RSS icon (to the left of 5 jobs found)

Option to click RSS or Atom appears (as in the above screenshot)
Upon clicking on RSS (or Atom), a new window appears as shown below

Is this progressing in the right direction?

I have no clue of the next steps.

I tried copying the URL to myYahoo! > Add Content
The result is a different site!

Hello Members/Moderators/Managers,

Who am I:

I am an exclusive agency member

My browser:

MS Edge, Chrome

Problem Statement:

I fail to set up email alerts.

I would like to know what, if anything, I am missing.

Description:

I have specific job searches duly saved.

I review / edit them by (Find Work > Find Work > My Feeds > Settings > Edit Saved Searches).

I want to set up alerts…

- moment someone posts a job fulfilling criteria indicated in my saved searches
- I want an email alert
- to the registered email address (set up in Upwork)
- email will contain the URL to a job fulfilling criteria indicated in my saved searches

If between 9 & 10am, 11 jobs fulfill my search criteria, I expect to see 11 emails in my inbox.

What did I try:

1) I tried Settings > Notification Settings.
Didn't look like that was the right method.

2) Then I tried all that is indicated in this thread.
The experience is attached for your reference.
Met dead-end.

Many thanks!
Best…
…Ash
