PROFESSIONAL RECOMMENDATIONS

Mike Kujanek

Founder & CEO at Magnitude Digital - New York

I've had the pleasure to work with Bill since 2016 while he has served as a Senior Advisor to Magnitude Digital. As a Senior Advisor, Bill has helped mentor me and other members of our agency's executive team on key interpersonal and business matters to help shape our continued growth. Bill is an incredibly astute, trustworthy, reliable, and genuine professional who means and does as he says. I can rely on Bill's input to be objective and invaluable especially during those times when you need honest and candid feedback the most.

Bill's level of experience as well as business acumen and insight is impressive and something I personally strive to achieve as a personal goal. I truly look forward to continuing my work with Bill in many capacities over the coming years. I am grateful for his commitment to Magnitude Digital, my personal development, and of course, a great friendship as well.

I have known and worked with Bill for the past 20 years. Simply put, Bill is a trustworthy, reliable entrepreneur who always thinks of his client and others around him first.

Bill and his team has built and supported IT infrastructure of the past four companies that I have worked for, and always delivered excellent results. Bill has also been my personal mentor and coach, and has helped me overcome many challenges throughout my career, even when he himself was going through much tougher situations.

Recently I started my own business and once again, Bill has offered me his support even before asking. Bill's entrepreneurship enlightens me more than ever, and I hope for those of you who are considering to engage with Bill on business and/or personal matter will find the opportunity to meet him in person and experience the same.

Paul Hallyburton

I have worked with Bill on a number of projects in Japan. His blessing and his curse is he is about ten years ahead of everyone. Everything he was recommending as the future in 2004 is common place now. I only wish I had taken his advice on more decisions on technology. It is also so unusual to find someone with Bill's technical ability to have such a strong fundamental business and market development skill. Above all is Bill's basic honesty and integrity, he has never failed to meet any commitment he has made even if it is to his detriment.

Bill was a client of mine and we developed a great relationship while I supported his account. Bill has deep technical and business prowess, as well as great communication skills in English and Japanese.

In our interactions, what impressed me most was his preoccupation with his customers: their wants, their challenges, and all the interesting things he helped them accomplish with his services. It's clear his customers are number one in his mind.
