I am David Dickens Orondo. I love working with young people, especially where there is an opportunity to enable them improve on their academic, and/ or other, skills. I have been a college-level tutor for many years.: I therefore believe that I am the right fit for assisting an upcoming scholar, struggling to find his or her way up the academic ladder. In particular, I've been in love with English language since age ten, when my dad, a thorough Grade Eight English teacher took my Class in it; I have also been privileged to teach it at college level and it has been the main channel of my cross-cultural communication with others for several years now.

Therefore, any academic work-- especially in the humanities and social sciences academic realm -- in which English is used as the mode of communication, would be of great interest to me. This better explains why I am ready to walk with you in your academic journey, hopefully, until you finally enter college. I am therefore humbly requesting your current academic/education sponsor to rope me into your academic walk/journey; surely I will not disappoint you.

In the past, I have also been privileged to teach cross cultural communication skills at college/university level. Hence, I would quickly adjust to the Canadian education system, given a chance, such as you are currently offering Net Citizens through this space. My preferred subjects however are: English language and Composition, English Literature. (Including Canadian Literature in English), Social studies, media literacy skills, study skills and research skills and History and Government. I am however able to handle other subject areas, provided I get prior, thorough briefings on them.

I am looking forward to hearing from you, or from your education sponsor, soon.
